

RAINSTORM HURT RETAILERS OF FOOD; PRICES GO DOWN

So Much Meat Left Unsold
Wholesalers Will Be Forced to a Lower Scale.

By P. Q. Fog.
(Special Food Expert of the Evening World.)

The cost of the rainstorm last Saturday afternoon and evening to the food stores in Greater New York ran into the millions, and more perishable foods were unsold when the stores closed up at night than has been the case at any time since the armistice was signed.

Competition among dealers is now more acute than for years, as nearly every store is making a "special" to attract trade.

The large meat markets in the uptown and Harlem districts had their counters and show cases piled up high with cut meats which were tagged at reasonable prices.

"It is entirely different," said a manager of a large market in Harlem. "When we made deliveries a rainstorm didn't cut much figure, but now when it rains our customers go to the delicatessen or some small store near at hand. There is so much meat cut up and unsold that it will take up to next Wednesday to clean it up, and the wholesale market will break."

President Minder of Washington Market stated last Saturday night that "the early morning trade was heavy, but rain kept the customers away in the afternoon, and large quantities of meat and vegetables were unsold."

The drive by the Evening World for a roast milk-veal dinner on Sunday was an unprecedented success, and prices were cut in all directions lower than the previous week, although the wholesale cost was without much change. Legs of milk-veal were offered at 25¢ a lb., and in some cases 30¢ for leg and rump veal. Breast of veal sold mainly at 20¢ a lb., while some stores sold the latter cut at 15¢ to 18¢, on Saturday.

Another decline was recorded in fresh beef last week, making a drop of 5 cents a pound on prime steers from Monday to Friday. This is due to the constructive marketing done by the housewives in following the advice given by the Evening World to purchase veal instead of the higher priced meats. Last Monday the large packers were demanding 24¢ a pound for good steers, while the same grade on Friday was pressed to sale at 21¢, but had to be carried over unsold.

The cargo of New Zealand lamb reported in these columns last Friday, is due to-day and will be on sale the middle of the week in the shops. This cargo, comprising 100,000 whole dressed lambs, is the largest to reach here from New Zealand in nearly ten years, and will supplement the available short supply of lamb in this country.

Fresh vegetables continue plentiful. Most varieties are reasonably low in the wholesale market. Texas onions, that were selling a week ago at $6 for a 45-pound crate, have now dropped to $3 and are expected to go lower again to-day, due to the abnormally large quantities of Egyptian onions afloat and awaiting steamer room to be dumped here.

Old potatoes dropped $1.50 a bag, to $12, at the close last week, and a further drop is looked for to-day.

The embargo on freight shipments, while not so pronounced as a week ago, is still in evidence, and thousands of carloads of freight of all kinds are held within a radius of fifty miles from New York City. Several cars of California vegetables, delivered last week, were on the way from twenty-six to thirty-two days and landed in a worthless condition, the cost of which falls on the shipper. The loss in perishable foods alone by the recent strike has cost several millions, some of which fell on speculators, but most of the loss will be reflected back to the shippers.

Market Commissioner O'Malley has arranged to meet the lease truckmen and stevedores who handle perishable foods next Wednesday. The present congestion of traffic compels loaded trucks of perishable foods to stand in line with hardware and other imperishable wares. Besides, a system of "tipping" has developed at many of the receiving piers, and where the tip is not forthcoming "there is no room for that class of freight." This abuse has grown in the last few months and is menacing the shipping of perishable foods out of town.

Fresh eggs are now coming in larger quantities, and the quality is one. Housewives who have not as yet waterlogged their supply of eggs for the winter months should do so at once before the warm weather sets in. Nearby henry eggs are now wholesaling at 50 to 55 cents a dozen, and fine fresh eggs from the West are selling at 45 to 46 cents a dozen.

JERSEY CITY MAN HURT BY A BOMB

Missile Loaded With Cartridges
Planted in Ceiling of Gambler's Bedroom.

Robert Arnheim, better known in sporting circles in Jersey City and New York as "Big Boy" Emron, was awakened at 1:30 P. M. yesterday in his home at No. 401 Palisade Avenue, Jersey City, by an explosion. Investigation disclosed that he had been the victim of an unusual bomb, consisting of a dozen .45 calibre cartridges, placed in an iron container about 4 by 6 inches. The bomb was planted in the ceiling over his head. A long candle was so arranged that after it had burned a certain distance it fired the strange contraption. Three bullets entered Arnheim's body, but none of them inflicted more than painful injury.

The police said that Arnheim long has been known as a gambler, and that they believe enemies made as the result of quarrels among gamblers, particularly one quarrel in which shots were fired in the Belvedere Club three months ago, led to the bomb planting. Arnheim had nothing to do with that shooting, the police explained, but his refusal to have anything to do with helping protect suspects may have a lot to do with this attempt on his life.

MARILYN MILLER'S HUSBAND KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Frank Carter Met Death While Trying Out Car He Had Bought for His Wife.

CUMBERLAND, Md., May 10.—Frank Carter, an actor, was instantly killed near Grantsville, twenty-seven miles west of here, yesterday, when the new auto he was driving to Philadelphia to meet his wife, Marilyn Miller, star of the "Follies of 1929," upset on a sharp turn of the National Pike.

Miss Miller arrived here late in the afternoon and will take the body to New York. She and Carter were married in New York May 1, 1919. He was twenty-eight.

Carter, who was the juvenile lead in "See-How," had just received from the manufacturers the auto, which was intended as a present for his wife. He was a member of the Lamb's and of the Actors' Equity and had been on the stage since he was five years old.

TRIAL OF 26 REDS BEGINS IN CHICAGO

Charged With Conspiracy to Overthrow U. S. Government and With Syndicalism.

CHICAGO, May 10.—Twenty-six radicals who are said to have gathered here last September to form the Communist Labor Party, were placed on trial in Criminal Court this morning, charged with conspiracy to advocate the overthrow of the United States Government and with criminal syndicalism. They are numbered among the 165 Communists, I. W. W. and Communist Laborers indicted last January, following the nation-wide round-up of suspected radicals. Forty-two, including three women, were indicted as organizers of the Communist Labor Party. Several are reported to have fled to Mexico and Europe. One, John Reed, Harvard graduate, magazine writer, author and first Bolshevik envoy to the United States, is now in jail at Abol, Finland, accused of smuggling from Bolshevik Russia.
